Navy Plane Crashes in Atlantic; Fear 13 are Dead

Search Planes Find Life Rafts, No Survivors

Transport Goes Down Off Coast of Newfoundland

STEPHENVILLE, Nfld. (AP) — A United States Navy Super Constellation today and all 13 men aboard are feared to have lost their lives. Search planes reported sighting five life rafts but no sign of survivors.

The four-engine transport, flying to the Patuxent Naval Air Base in Maryland, went down 70 miles southwest of Stephenville, which is on the southwest coast of Newfoundland.

The plane reported two engines out over Prince Edward Island and attempted to return to the Ernest Harmon U. S. Air Force Base when an escorting B29 lost contact with it.

The plane carried seven passengers and six crewmen, but the Air Force withheld their names pending notification of next-of-kin.

Sight Life Rafts, Jackets

Messages received by the U. S. Coast Guard in New York said the escorting aircraft sighted five life rafts and life jackets as well as plane debris, but there were no signs of survivors.

The Coast Guard cutter Yakutat and a U. S. Navy ship USS Hoist, rushed to the scene from Argentia, Nfld., to join the air search being carried out by two planes and a helicopter from Harmon.

The Coast Guard said the B29 was rushed to the crippled transport after the pilot reported that first one, then a second engine had gone dead.

The escort aircraft rendezvoused with the Super Constellation at 5:04 a. m. and the stricken plane tried to return to Harmon.

Twelve minutes later, the doomed aircraft shut off its lights and electrical equipment, to jetison fuel. Then the B29 lost visual contact with it.

A few minutes later, radar contact was lost.

Winston Gidcumb Purchase Grocery

Mr. and Mrs. Winston Gidcumb have bought the Travelstead and Rose grocery store on West Sloan street and are operating it under the name, Gidcumb's Sloan Street grocery.

Purchase was made last Thursday night from Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rose, the owners. The store was founded 33 years ago by the late Tony Travelstead and the operation later was taken over by the late E. J. "Buster" Travelstead. Mr. Rose bought out Travelstead's share about two years ago. The new two-story concrete building which now houses the store was constructed four years ago.

Mr. Gidcumb formerly was associated with his father, Joe Gidcumb, in the furniture business here. He and Mrs. Gidcumb have three children, Bobby, in the second grade, Richard, in kindergarten, and Lucy Ann, 4.

Plan Polio Penny Parade at County Tourney

Students Will Seek To Collect 180,000 Pennies for Drive

"One hundred eighty thousand pennies would make quite a pile of money," R. L. Foster, principal of Harrisburg Township high school, observed while discussing a project for high school students in the March of Dimes campaign. The plan being discussed was the Saline County Polio Penny Parade, being sponsored by the student councils of the four Saline county high schools—Carrier Mills, Eldorado, Galatia and Harrisburg. The penny parade, to be staged during the next several days, will climax Friday night, Jan. 28, at Davenport gymnasium during the first half of the opening game of the Saline county basketball tournament.

Generally speaking, the plan will call for all high school students in Saline county to collect 100 pennies for the March of Dimes finance campaign and complete their collection in time to turn the money over to campaign officials on the night of Jan. 28.

Student councils in the various schools will distribute two penny coin wrappers to every student in their school. There are approximately 1,800 high school students in the county and if each one reaches his goal that would make 3,600 filled wrappers of 50 pennies each—or 180,000 pennies—and that's a lot of money.

To Select Polio Queen
The students will be urged to make their collections in pennies, just picking up a loose cent here and there, not getting a dollar from someone and converting it into pennies.

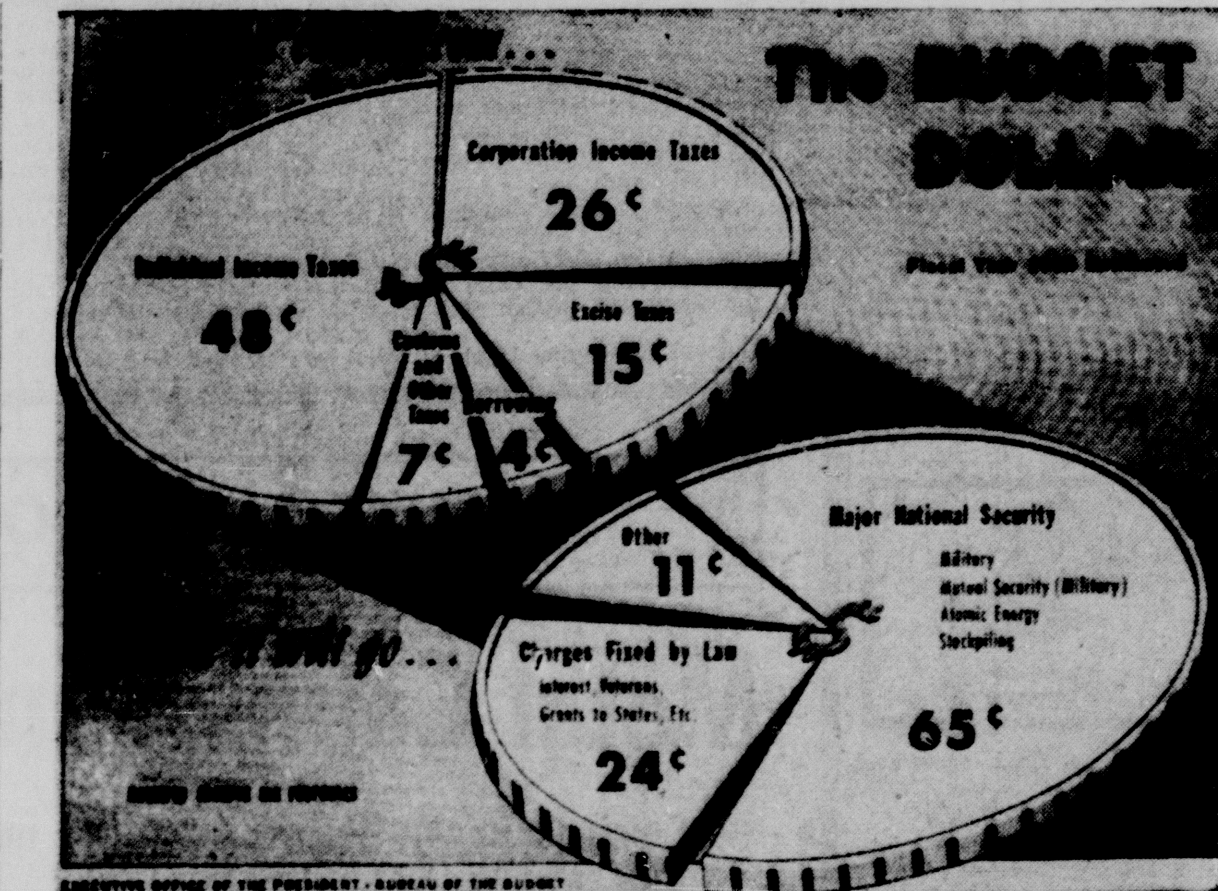

It is thought that if the collection is really a "penny parade" it will accomplish the purpose of adding many hundreds of dollars to the fund without conflicting with other March of Dimes programs in the county.

To add a spirit of competition to the event, a Polio Queen will be selected. Each school will select a candidate and the candidate from the school collecting highest percentage of quota becomes County Polio Queen and the other candidates will become her attendants.

The plan calls for all collections to be turned in to the respective schools by 1 p. m. Jan. 28, to give officials sufficient time to figure percentages and designate the winning Queen candidate.

At halftime of the first game student representatives from the schools will be called to the gym floor with wrapped pennies and then unwrap and dump loose pennies in a heap around the Queen and attendants and Polio patients as a symbol of the county's willingness to help fight the disease.

Will Cause No Shortage
To carry to the fund, cheer leaders will add sheets along the gymnasium to receive contributions from spectators. Each group of cheer leaders will be assigned a section of the gym.

BUDGET DOLLAR—This is one of charts released in connection with President Eisenhower's budget message to Congress. It shows where the budget dollar comes from and where it goes. Total estimated expenditures for fiscal 1956 are $62.4 billion. Estimated receipts total $60 billion, leaving a deficit of 2.4 billion.

Sen. Douglas Says Stock Market Probe Will Not Be 'Witch Hunt'

EDITOR'S NOTE: Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.), a former university professor and an author of books on economics, is a member of the Senate Banking Committee which plans an investigation of the stock market. He also is new chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report. In the following exclusive interview with the United Press, Douglas gives some of his ideas on the stock market inquiry.

By WARREN DUFFEE
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) said today the stock market "definitely needs" investigation because Congress has not taken a thorough look at its operations for 20 years.

But he added there is no reason to fear that the inquiry, as now planned, will upset the market by becoming a sensational, headline-seeking investigation.

The inquiry, under the direction of Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) of the Senate Banking Committee, "will be a study more than an investigation, a most important study," Douglas said.

Fulbright, he added, "is not a man to indulge in any witch hunts—the people can feel safe with him."

Original demand for the stock market inquiry was brought about by unusual upward surges in stock prices.

Douglas, a member of the banking committee, said "we're not charging that there's been any chicanery... but it is puzzling to see the market go up so sharply while business generally was declining somewhat." He noted Congress has not looked into stock market operations since the early 1930s.

The Illinois Democrat said he will ask the Federal Reserve to explain during the market hearings why it raised basic bank interest rates soon after reducing margin requirements for stock market purchases from 75 to 50 percent. A more recent order raised them to 60.

He said "The Federal Reserve owes the country an explanation of why it decreased the margin requirements while it was raising the interest rate."

Douglas said the lowered margin requirement "seemed out of line with the general policy" the administration was following on fiscal matters at the time.

"Was the federal reserve right? That is one thing I think we should find out," he said.

Sets Hearings Soon

Douglas, who also is new chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on the Economic Report, said he hopes to start the joint committee's hearings on President Eisenhower's economic message about Feb. 1. Congress is due to receive the message Jan. 21.

He said heads of government agencies and economists from universities, business and labor will be asked to testify on the President's recommendations.

After the hearings, the committee, which has no legislative power, will make its report to Congress. Douglas said he hopes to meet the March 1 deadline for the committee report which was set in the 1946 Full Employment Act.

Early last year Douglas warned that the country was in a business recession which should be watched to keep it from becoming a depression.

The Republicans denounced him as a "prophet of doom and gloom" and made business prosperity a main issue in their unsuccessful campaign to defeat him for reelection.

The Harrisburg funeral home will be in charge.

Curtice Sees New Peak in U. S. Economy

NEW YORK (AP)—Harlow H. Curtice, president of General Motors, predicted today the nation's economy would reach a new peak in 1955 and automobile production would soar to 7,600,000 units, an increase of 650,000 over 1954.

In an address to 550 business and industrial leaders at a lunch here preceding the opening of the annual General Motors Motorama, Curtice painted an optimistic picture for 1955 with the automobile industry, "the greatest single contributor to the strength of the economy," leading the way.

He forecast a 3 per cent rise in the gross national product—the total value of all goods and services in the country—to a record of 375 billion dollars. This figure, he predicted, will hit about 500 billion in the early 1960s, at which time, he said, personal income after taxes will be up about 40 per cent.

"The elements of strength in the economy are more discernible today than they were in January, 1954," he said.

"Of greatest importance is the widespread public confidence, which is in sharp contrast to the caution that prevailed a year ago. 'I believe a high level of employment will be maintained in 1955. The work week should be somewhat longer than in 1954. Personal incomes will rise, and consumer disposable incomes will be at record levels. With confidence prevailing, consumer spending will be substantially higher than last year.'"

4 U. S. Planes Aid Costa Rica Against Rebels

American Pilots Fly Fighters There, Return to Texas

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP) — Four propeller-driven U. S. fighter planes arrive here today to reinforce the government against rebels who have seized the northwestern corner of Costa Rica.

The obsolescent F-51s are being flown here by U. S. ferry pilots. They will hand them over to Costa Rican officials and return to their Texas base, taking no part in the fighting.

The revolt, which had been mainly a "war of words" since it started a week ago, erupted into action during the weekend around the northwestern outpost of Santa Rosa.

The rebels scored initial gains, boosting total government casualties for the week to three dead and 14 wounded, but an official communique Sunday night said most of the lost ground had been regained.

The government, which has been censoring incoming cables and local newspapers since Wednesday, imposed censorship on outgoing cables Sunday night but lifted the ban after three hours.

Two Reporters Killed

In place of a formal censorship, Foreign Minister Mario Esquivel asked correspondents to clear any stories concerning troop movements with army headquarters before sending them.

Costa Rica, which has no regular army, is fighting the rebels with a makeshift combination of police and unpaid, undertrained volunteers.

Two Costa Rican reporters were killed while covering the fighting at Santa Rosa and six foreign correspondents were reported missing for a time.

After spending a time behind the rebel lines, all six returned safely to government territory. The group included United Press photographer John Abney, Philip Payne and George Skadney, of Time, Inc., Paul Sanchez, a Canadian television cameraman for NBC and two Cubans.

Rebels armed with carbines fired at a U. S. observation plane Saturday, but did not hit it. Another American plane was "buzzed" but not damaged by the war-surplus F-47 that is the backbone of the rebel "air force."

Revenue Office Opens for Period To Aid Taxpayers

The Internal Revenue office in the city hall opened today for the benefit of taxpayers and a long queue of people formed early in the morning.

The office will be open Jan. 17-31 and April 4-15.

Three Internal Revenue Service employees, Martin Doherty, Harold Riegel and George Anderson, were on hand to assist the taxpayers.

The period, Jan. 17-31, has been designated as the time to take care of the farmers' returns. If a farmer does not file a declaration of estimated tax, Form 1040-ES, for the year 1954 on or before Jan. 17 and pay the tax disclosed thereon, he may file his complete income tax return, Form 1040, for the year 1954 on or before Jan. 31, and pay the tax disclosed on the return.

Assistance will be given the general public April 4-15. In order to render the maximum assistance to the greatest number of taxpayers, priority will be given to those taxpayers who need assistance or advice to clarify or explain points not understood. Expected volume of calls for assistance and the limited personnel available will make it impractical to prepare business schedules or returns of individuals with substantial amounts of income.

Deadline for filing final returns is April 15.

Stonefort to Vote On Wet-Dry Issue

Stonefort township outside the corporate limits of the village of Stonefort will vote April 5 on the wet-dry issue.

Petitions asking for the referendum have been filed with Ralph Taylor, clerk of the Town of Stonefort.

The petitions were prepared by Atty. George B. Lee and Atty. Glen O. Jones of this city.

Here is Where Tax Dollar Goes; Source of Income

WASHINGTON (UP) — Here is where your tax dollar would go under President Eisenhower's fiscal 1956 budget:

National security—65 cents.
Charges fixed by law—24 cents.
All other—11 cents.
Total—$1.00.

National security includes the military, aid to allies, atomic energy and stockpiling; charges fixed by law include interest on the public debt, veterans benefits, grants to states, etc.

And here is where the budget dollar would come from:

Individual income taxes — 48 cents.
Corporate income taxes — 26 cents.
Excise sales taxes—15 cents.
Customs and other taxes — 7 cents.
Borrowing—4 cents.
Total—$1.00.

President Sees Billion Drop in Ag Dep't Funds

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower told Congress today that reduced outlays for farm price supports are expected to trim about one billion dollars from Agriculture Department spending in fiscal 1956.

He estimated in his budget message that the department will spend a net $2,495,782,022 in the fiscal year beginning July. That compares with an estimated $3,424,133,853 this year.

Mr. Eisenhower said the administration's flexible farm price support program, going into effect this calendar year, will "help farmers solve many of their own problems" and cut government spending for support of farm income.

The President expected net price support spending to total 968 million dollars in fiscal 1956 compared to $1,934,000,000 this year.

Although decreased price support spending is expected, the budget showed that the agriculture department expects to take a record $769,729,685 loss on its price support program in fiscal 1956.

Two Reasons for Drop
The estimated loss in fiscal 1955 was estimated at $748,650,495 compared to a previous record loss of $419,477,074 in fiscal 1954.

These losses are made up of the cost of storing surpluses already held, handling charges, plus the loss the government takes in unloading them as sales or give-aways.

The biggest single fiscal 1956 loss was expected to be $309,042,000 on dairy products. That loss estimate compares with a total loss expected on six "basic" crops of $344,245,000.

Mr. Eisenhower said he expects price support spending to drop for two reasons:

1. The second consecutive year of federal crop controls on basic crops like wheat and cotton and lower prices on feed grains and other crops should mean a lower volume of support loans by the government.

2. Returns to the department under stepped up disposal programs of federal surpluses should increase.

Kinnaman is Transferred as Kresge Manager

K. W. Kinnaman, manager of the Kresge store in Harrisburg for nearly two years, is being transferred to a bigger store in Michigan and he was replaced here today by Charles Shingler, who has been manager of a Kresge store at Lansing, Mich.

Mr. Kinnaman, who is still in Harrisburg, said that a new store is being built in Midland, Mich., a city of 19,000, and that he will be its manager when it is opened in March. In the meantime, he said, he probably will spend time in Kresge stores at Paducah and Evansville.

Midland is 100 miles north of Detroit. Big industry is a plant of the Dow chemical works.

Mrs. Kinnaman and son, Fred, will remain in Harrisburg until Fred graduates from high school in June.

President Bans Tax Cuts Now, Hopes for Relief

Two Thirds of Budget Will Be for National Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower sent Congress today a $62.408,000,000 spending budget based on preparedness and prosperity.

He banned tax reduction now, but gave hope of tax relief next year, a presidential election year.

To prepare against "a long period of uncertainty," he allotted to major national security in the new 1956 fiscal year two-thirds of all government spending—$40,458,000,000.

The accent was on air power and atomic weapons. The Air Force got almost as much as the Army and Navy combined.

The President's total new spending budget was down more than a billion dollars from this year's and estimated revenue was up a billion, but he still couldn't balance the budget. He looked for a deficit of $2,408,000,000.

Points Emphasized

The President, however, emphasized these points on the positive side:

1. "Never in our peacetime history have we been as well prepared to defend ourselves as we are now."

2. "Our present growing prosperity has solid foundations... a growing prosperity will result in increasing revenues and should make possible both a balanced budget and lower tax rates in the future."

Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey set fiscal 1957—beginning July 1, 1956—as the target date for tax cuts and a balanced budget.

Mr. Eisenhower called for legislation that would lead to a new kind of tax relief for 35 million smaller taxpayers—relief from the task of figuring out their tax returns. This would not become effective until 1957 at the earliest.

He asked for 12 million dollars in new money to provide closer auditing of tax returns to assure that all hands pay their fair share.

Steady Spending Reductions

Mr. Eisenhower's budget showed steady reductions in government spending since the Republicans took over. Here are the figures:

	1954	1955	1956
In billions of dollars
Actual	64.555	59.	60.
Estimate	67.772	63.504	62.408

Mr. Eisenhower estimated revenue up 1 billion dollars from the current fiscal year despite 1954 tax reductions. He reported a growing national prosperity based on solid foundations.

"We continue," he said, "to progress toward a balanced budget. 'The fiscal and budget story during the past year centers around the fact that we successfully made the adjustment from wartime to a peacetime type of economy, a

Budget at a Glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's fiscal 1956 budget at a glance:

Spending: $62,400,000,000 — down $1,100,000,000 in the red, compared to $4,500,000,000 this year. But the so-called cash budget, which also includes income and outgo of social security and other trust funds not included in the budget, would show a surplus of $558,000,000, first in four years.

Taxes: No tax cuts this year. Cuts in corporation income and federal sales taxes due April 1 should be postponed. But "further tax reduction remains a firm goal of this administration" and the President is hopeful that new cuts "will be justified next year."

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Hammar-skjold Dealt With Uncooperative Nehru And Moody Chou; Chou Drives A Hard Bargain For American Fliers; Antitrust Suit Against Ike-Backer Begins.

WASHINGTON.—Here are the highlights of what Dag Hammar-skjold, persevering secretary general of the United Nations, ran up against on his historic mission to Peiping.

He had arranged the meeting with Foreign Minister Chou En-lai through a relative who is attached to the Swedish embassy in Peiping. And before leaving he had telegraphed Premier Nehru of India that he would stop there for important talks and with the hope of getting Nehru's cooperation. Nehru, he felt, would have persuasive influence with the Chinese Reds.

In New Delhi, however, he got his first wet blanket. Not only did Nehru refuse to go to the airport to meet him, but later Nehru outlined his own terms for the release of the 11 Americans and wouldn't play ball unless he, Nehru, ran the show. Hammar-skjold left with no support from Nehru whatsoever, and it was no consolation that Nehru's sister, Madame Pandit, later bawled Nehru out and told him he was becoming increasingly anti-American.

In Peiping, Hammar-skjold found the Chinese foreign minister in no mood to trade easily. He wanted a pound of flesh, plus a lot more, in return for the release of the 11 Americans. One flier in particular may not be released at all—a lieutenant colonel who signed a "confession."

Chou En-lai showed the confession to Hammar-skjold, together with other documents supposed to be "incriminating evidence."

The lieutenant colonel's signed statement admits his guilt as a spy and states that he was over Red China when he was shot down. The lieutenant colonel, according to information gathered by Hammar-skjold, also appeared in a Red propaganda film which will soon be released throughout the Communist world to prove American espionage. His statement will undoubtedly be broadcast over Radio Peiping.

THE CHINESE DEMANDS
Briefly summarized, what the slim Swede, who took the bit in his teeth by flying to Peiping, got was this:

1. American fliers would be released piecemeal—not all at once—depending on how the USA complies with Chinese Red demands. Thus three or four fliers would be released, then three or four more, and so on.

2. In return, China complained about the following and wants the United States to act accordingly:

3. Presence of the U. S. Seventh Fleet in the Straits of Formosa.

B. Lack of U. N. recognition of Red China.

C. Freezing of Chinese funds in American banks.

D. The return of Chinese students. Incidentally, very little was said about them. Chou mentioned the students and said the United States should release those whom China would name. However, he seemed to consider them a comparatively minor issue.

CHOU BLASTS RAYBURN

He was much more vigorous in urging withdrawal of the U. S. Seventh Fleet. In talking on this subject he also sounded off against Speaker Sam Rayburn, who has not been too active in the China controversy. The Chinese foreign minister claimed, however, that Rayburn had now joined the ranks of Republican Senator Knowland in boosting Chiang Kai-Shek.

In discussing U. N. recognition, Chou told Hammar-skjold that India was ready to make the move to seat China at the appropriate time. Obviously there had been earlier conversations on the subject.

The question of unfreezing Chinese funds seemed especially to stick in Chou's craw. He complained that the State Department had agreed to discuss this with a special unit of Chinese financial experts in Geneva during the earlier unofficial talks over release of the American prisoners. However, Chou claimed the United States had suddenly broken off these talks and refused to unfreeze Chinese funds.

The meeting ended with the U. N. secretary general making it clear he had no authority to bargain for the United States. He simply represented the United Nations, had no power to speak for or commit the USA as to what it would do about such internal problems as unfreezing Chinese funds.

3 Top German Plane Makers Busy in Spain

MADRID (U.P.)—Three of Germany's top aircraft designers under Adolf Hitler have "kept their hand in" since 1949 by working closely with aeronautical factories in Spain, it was disclosed today.

Spanish government and aircraft industry officials confirmed that Willy Messerschmitt, Ernst Heinkel and Claude Dornier Jr. have been busy helping Spain develop its own airplane production.

Associates here believe all three men will be quick to re-enter the aircraft field in Germany after the ratification of the Paris agreements for rearmament of West Germany.

That pact prohibits German manufacture of guided missiles and long-range bombers but puts no ban on jet fighters or tactical bombers.

Built Different Types

Messerschmitt's single-engine fighter was the best known of all Nazi planes in the early days of the war but proved not quite a match for the famed British Spitfire.

The Heinkel two-engine bomber was the main German striking weapon in the Battle of Britain.

Dornier Jr., only 38, worked with his father in their huge factories. The Dorniers are best known for the great flying boats they developed just before World War II. The senior Dornier now lives in Zurich, Switzerland.

Both Messerschmitt and Heinkel were prominent in developing jet plane designs for Germany in the late war years. Due to Hitler's continuous changes of decisions, their jets never got beyond the experimental stage.

Associates Several Years

Jose Ortiz Echague, general manager of Casa, Spain's leading aircraft manufacturer, said his company's connection with Messerschmitt dates from 1949. Messerschmitt also is consultant for another aircraft company, Hispano, situated at Seville.

Heinkel and Dornier Jr. have been technical consultants for Casa for about three years, Echague said. Echague revealed that Casa has built and delivered some 200 Heinkel medium bombers to the Spanish air force. The Hispano company is building Messerschmitt ME109 fighters.

Casa also has built three prototypes of the D025 liaison plane under Spanish air force specifications and recently a small Dornier piston-engine monoplane was exhibited.

Had Helped Franco

Spanish business circles said friendly ties have existed between the Spanish and German aviation industries ever since Nazi Germany helped Generalissimo Francisco's forces in the civil war. They said the American military mission here endorses building up a strong Spanish aircraft industry.

Messerschmitt a month ago was awarded the Spanish Aeronautical Medal of Merit by Minister of Air Gonzales Gallaza. Messerschmitt is living in Seville.

Rites Today for Mrs. C. F. Elder

Funeral services for Mrs. C. F. Elder, former resident of Harrisburg and Eldorado who died Friday morning in Passagville, Fla., were held today at 2 p. m. at the Martin funeral home in Eldorado. Rev. C. C. Lowe officiated, and burial was in Wolf Creek cemetery.

Mrs. Elder's body was cremated because of Florida laws creating a 48 hour delay in moving the deceased from that state and the ashes were received at the Martin funeral home.

First plate glass was ground and polished by rubbing two plates together by hand.

Sen. McClellan Hits Army Role In Peress Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark) said Sunday night he expects to summon Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens and Army counsel John G. Adams in a new investigation of the celebrated "Peress Case."

McClellan on a television program was sharply critical of the Army's role in the case of Maj. Irving Peress, New York dentist who was promoted and later honorably discharged, despite his refusal to answer loyalty questions.

The Arkansasian is new chairman of the Senate Investigative Subcommittee, formerly headed by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

The group might also reopen McCarthy's controversial investigation of alleged espionage at the Army's Fort Monmouth, N. J., secret radar center, McClellan said.

McClellan anticipates no trouble from McCarthy. "If he is sincere, and I always ascribed to him absolute sincerity in his opposition to Communism, I would assume he would try to work with the committee," McClellan said.

McCarthy, in a stormy Senate debate last week, accused some Democrats of insincerity in agreeing to continue investigating Communism.

The Arkansasian will head the Senate Government Operations Committee, parent of the investigating subcommittee, as well as the inquiry group.

Asked if he agreed with Sen. Charles E. Potter (R-Mich) that Stevens and Adams should resign, McClellan said, "If I had some responsibility, there'd be some action taken." He did not elaborate.

Anderson, wife of the assistant defense secretary. The bussing business took place at Rayburn's birthday party in Washington, D. C.

Walker Named Democratic Chairman

Plane Crashes Into Lake Michigan

CHICAGO (AP)—A plane, believed to be a light passenger craft, crashed into Lake Michigan about two miles off 103rd Street today, and the Coast Guard said there were no survivors found around the scene.

A body was found hanging on the fuselage of the plane. Coast Guardsmen said that in its pockets were papers bearing the name of John A. Coram, Columbus, Ohio.

Coast Guardsmen said two suits, two hats and two topcoats were in the plane, indicating at least one other man might have been aboard.

At Meigs, airport officials said a plane had advised about 10 a. m. CST that it was unable to follow the coast line because of ground fog and smoke. It was about 2,000 feet over Gary at the time.

Two Bandits Rob Keyesport Bank

KEYESPORT, Ill. (AP)—Two young bandits held up the State Bank of Keyesport today and escaped with an estimated $4,500.

The men made their getaway in an old car, headed north down a country road toward Mulberry Grove.

John Milton used 8,000 different words in his poem "Paradise Lost."

Eisenhower Calls for $62.4 Billion Budget

truly significant achievement."

He estimated that fiscal 1956 spending would be $11,900,000,000 less than in fiscal 1955, the last year of spending under the program of former President Truman.

The budget contained a trio of political bombshells, each set off in single obscure passages. The first asked appropriation of 1-million dollars to determine the feasibility of harnessing the vast tides of Passamaquoddy Bay to produce hydro-electric power.

Passamaquoddy Bay lies between Maine and New Brunswick, Canada. Franklin D. Roosevelt's similar proposal 20 years ago produced one of the notably angry disputes of his administrations.

Another Political Explosion

Another political explosion doubtless will blast around Mr. Eisenhower's request that Congress compel the Tennessee Valley Authority to pay an adequate rate of interest on government funds invested in its power facilities.

This recommendation was in line with the private enterprise economic philosophy expressed throughout the message.

Thirdly, Mr. Eisenhower invited the people to give "sober consideration" to the fact that two of every five adult males and some women now are entitled to veterans benefits of one kind or another, and that costs again are on the zoom.

Constructive reconsideration of the whole veterans situation was necessary he said, and reported:

"I am therefore appointing a commission on veterans' pensions to study the entire structure, scope and philosophy of our veterans' pension and compensation laws in relation to each other and to other government programs." He said veterans would require $4,600,000,000 in the new budget.

Major Security Allotment

The major national security allotment included 2-billion to develop the Atomic Energy Commission, $3,075,000,000 for military assistance to allies and various lesser sums. The Air Force received $15,600,000,000; the army $8,850,000,000; and the Navy $9,700,000,000.

The President reviewed his manpower program involving an overall reduction in military personnel, and a stepped-up training and reserve program. The principal manpower cuts would be in the Army.

The Navy would continue to develop atomic propulsion for undersea and surface vessels and the Air Force would build to 130 wings by June 30, 1956 toward its goal of 137.

Mr. Eisenhower said he would revise several international programs to give appropriate attention to "the important trouble spots around the world." Formosa and Japan were especially mentioned for a defense buildup.

He said it was the determined policy of the United States to join in a successful effort to banish the threat of atomic war. But, in the meantime, the only alternative and deterrent to attack was to continue to increase the stockpile of nuclear weapons.

Three Basic Requirements

The President informed Congress that his national policies were founded upon three basic requirements:

1. Defending the heritage of political liberty and personal freedom from attack without and undermining from within.

2. Government assistance toward the advance of human welfare and encouragement of economic growth where necessary and as far as possible in partnership with state and local authorities and private enterprise.

3. Maintenance of financial strength by preserving the value of the dollar.

"A liberal attitude toward the welfare of the people," Mr. Eisenhower said, "and a conservative approach to the use of their money has shaped this budget."

But for last year's tax cuts aggregating $7,400,000,000 this budget would have been balanced, Mr. Eisenhower told Congress, adding that we cannot afford to have further reductions this year.

But the President believes taxes must come down both to bring about and to sustain a growing national economy.

"The present tax take of nearly one fourth of our national income is a serious obstacle," he said, "to the long term dynamic growth of the economy which is so necessary for the future."

Powell Tells LAID Meeting Legislature May Boost Sales Tax to Aid Education

ELDRADO, Ill. (AP)—Rep. Paul Powell (D-Vienna) said Sunday a one-cent increase in the state sales tax might be passed by the General Assembly as an emergency measure to improve educational appropriations and be discontinued later.

Powell, former House minority leader, made his prediction at a meeting called here by the Labor Association for Industrial Development to endorse Southern Illinois University's 16 1/2 million dollar operating budget request for the next two years.

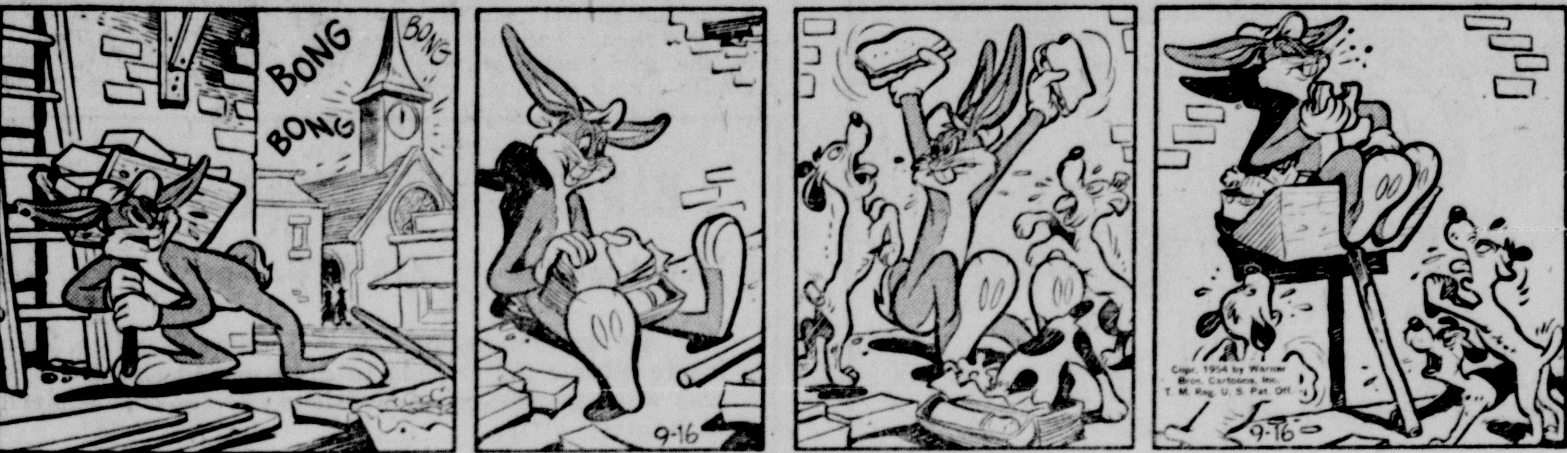

Powell, a member of the Illinois Budgetary Commission, pledged to do whatever he could to help SIU get "every dime" of its request.

He said the meeting was the first of its kind called by a labor organization in southern Illinois in support of legislation concerning education and indicated "a new era of labor stability."

"The courtroom of the City Hall was filled to capacity as 10 local organizations endorsed the SIU budget. Other legislators attending were State Sen. Glen O. Jones (R-Raleigh) and State Reps. Gordon Kerr (R-Brookport) and W. O. Verhines (R-Vienna).

Dulles Opens Drive for Eisenhower Authority to Continue Tariff Cuts

By United Press
Secretary of State John Foster Dulles today kicked off President Eisenhower's drive for continued authority to cut tariffs. He told the House Ways and Means Committee that expanding world trade is "good business for us."

Dulles was the first administration witness as the committee opened its hearings on the President's request for a three-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, with specific authority to reduce import duties by an additional 15 per cent.

Dulles pointed out that exports play a big part in the U. S. economy. This is not always as apparent, he said, as the possible damage to be done domestic industry by imports. He said one depends on the other.

Besides being good business, he said, reciprocal tariff cutting is vital to security of the United States and of the Free World generally. Arming our friends against communism won't help if we let them fail economically, he said.

"It would be a great mistake to assume that our security can be assured merely by treaties of military alliance," Dulles warned. "Such treaties crumble unless they are supported by something more than words or even by weapons."

Other congressional developments:

Narcotics: The House passed unanimously, and sent to the Senate, legislation to make sure no narcotics violators slip through a loophole inadvertently written last year into the new tax law. A clerical error in that law knocked out one of the criminal penalties provided for narcotics offenses. Today's bill would put it back in.

Roses: Every member of the House got a red rose today, from Rep. Frances P. Bolton (R-Ohio). It was a publicity scheme. Attached to each rose was a copy of her resolution to make the rose our national flower.

Ferguson: The House passed and sent to the White House a Senate bill to let ex-Sen. Homer Ferguson (R-Mich.) keep his seat on the Hoover Commission on Government Reorganization, despite the fact he is no longer a senator. The bill went through without objection although Rep. Wright Patman (D-Tex.) said he wants the record to show this isn't to be considered as setting a precedent.

Upper Branch: House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass.) said the Senate is not, as some people keep saying, the "upper chamber" of Congress. Under the constitution, said McCormack, House and Senate are co-equal. House members applauded his comments, but without much hope of halting the practice.

Eisenhower to Ask Congress to Raise Debt Limit

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today that he will have to ask Congress during fiscal 1956 for an increase of at least eight billion dollars in the public debt limit.

Congress last year authorized a temporary increase of six billion dollars, raising the ceiling to 281 billion dollars. This temporary increase will expire June 30 and the statutory limit will go back to 275 billion dollars.

"With the present seasonal pattern of tax collections, expenditures will exceed receipts in the first six months of the fiscal year 1956 by about eight billion dollars," Mr. Eisenhower said in his annual Budget Message.

"Thus, it will not be possible to pay the government's bills in that period without exceeding the 275-billion-dollar limit."

He estimated the federal debt would fall back to 276 billion dollars July 1, 1956.

GM Offers to Buy Back Surplus Cars From Dealers

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors tried to slow down the "bootlegging" of new cars through used car lots today by offering to "buy back" from its dealers any surplus cars.

President Harlow H. Curtice, whose firm is the biggest automobile producer in the nation, said GM would repurchase or arrange for repurchase through other GM dealers of any cars considered to be "excess supply."

Curtice said the new policy is aimed at permitting dealers who find themselves "in an over-supply position" to sell the surplus back to the company or to other dealers rather than wholesale the cars to "bootleg" dealers.

The industry has been plagued with "bootlegging" in recent years in the "buyer's market" in automobiles. Dealers caught with surplus inventories have sold them to used car dealers.

Harrisburg Man Admits Burglary of Tavern Near Benton

BENTON, Ill. — Floyd B. Matthews, 32, Harrisburg, was freed on $3,000 bond Thursday from the Franklin County jail in Benton after confessing to burglary of the Clover Club Tavern east of Benton, state's attorney Joe Hickman said.

Matthews was arrested Wednesday afternoon in Harrisburg by Paul Collins, Franklin County sheriff and Saline County authorities. Officials said he admitted the Tuesday night break-in to State's Attorney Hickman and Collins.

Officials said more than $100 in cash was recovered from the $132.50 taken in the burglary. Four other break-ins were committed in the county Tuesday night in Benton, Coello, Mulkeytown and Ewing. Officials said Matthews was not implicated in those.

Matthews waived preliminary hearing on a warrant issued by police Magistrate John Andras and was bound over for grand jury action.

"In-Between" President
President Benjamin Harrison was preceded and succeeded by the same man, Grover Cleveland, whose two terms were interspersed by Harrison's term.

Attorneys Ask Bail For Dr. Sheppard to Aid Criminologist

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Attorneys for convicted wife-killer Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard asked a three-man Court of Appeals to release him under bail today so he could assist "a noted criminologist" in finding "the true murderer of Marilyn Sheppard."

The judges took the appeal under advisement, and were expected to rule on the plea late today or Tuesday.

William J. Corrigan, head of Dr. Sam's legal counsel, said the Sheppard family had retained Paul Kirk, head of the department of criminology, University of California. He was expected in Cleveland later this week, he said, to investigate the July 4 bludgeon-murder.

It was vital to the defense case, Corrigan argued, that Dr. Sheppard be free under bail to assist Kirk.

"You'll get no help from police," he said. "You'll get no help from the authorities. I know this man is innocent from the bottom of my heart. His freedom under bail is vital to correct this grave injustice."

Fight The Wild River

by EDMUNDS CLAUSSEN

© 1954, W. Edmunds Clausen. Prior copyright, Standard Publications, Inc.

THE STORY: As an attempt is made to capture a shipment of rifles delivered by Captain Crotch's riverboat to the Colorado River town of La Paz, Radcliff Burke, ringleader in the attempt, is shot by Crotch.

XII

Dreyfus stalked up while Crotch stood above the dead man. He was carrying his pistol dangling at his side.

"Wasn't much use, I guess," Dreyfus said disheartened. He was clapping the sleeve of his gun-arm; obviously he had been nipped by one of Burke's bullets.

Ironically a picture flamed across Crotch's still hot mind. He saw Queenie walking up to Dreyfus; fear, shock and yet a gentleness were registered on her face. She would nurse him with a tenderness—this stupid wound Burke had inflicted would make a hero of him in Queenie's eyes, knitting them more closely together. At the same time he himself had killed the man she once had loved.

"You did me a turn," he said slowly. "Friend, you did me a turn."

"No, I believe it's the other way. If you hadn't killed Burke he would have got me. I'm no hand at this kind of job."

They stood dead still while the notes of a bugle struck full force. Crotch murmured, "I believe Lane's done it!"

They moved swiftly to the rail and looked over into the landing strip with its clusters of men sitting on the ground nursing their heads. Lamplight from the Casa Amarilla washed the scene; in all directions Crotch could see miners running toward the utter darkness at the camp's edges. Jim Melott and his Cocopahs and scores of Lane's Unionists were hard on their heels.

Lieutenant Lane stood alone, leaning heavily against his rifle crates, his uniform slashed into ribbons. Somewhere in camp he had discovered a miner who could sound the horn; from somewhere else he had picked up an 1847 bugle. Of the original 13 men who had gone down the gangplank carrying the rifle crates Lane was the last man standing. The fight he had presented, the posture of him so ragged and tired, imparted pride to Crotch.

Amos Jamison turned from the window of the newly built La Paz Milling Company. He was a roly-poly, belted, solid man with a broad, craggy face, steely eyes and more than a touch of gray to his hair. As usual, he was dressed in a San Francisco marine jacket and blue twill trousers. A brash, assuming man behind whose dapperness hid years of cutthroat river practices.

He opened his broad palms to the milling officials. "You see, gentlemen, Crotch and company have helped put down the insurrection!"

"His crew took part," John Slade said finally. "No doubt of it."

Sugar Logan was a tall, suave man, polished of dress and manner, who brought to La Paz an air of big business. Logan had strong beliefs, even though he made no habit of forcing them upon others.

Jamison gave a laughing sound with his throat.

"Come, gentlemen. I make no bones about it, I want Crotch's contract."

"A paper once signed is binding," Sugar Logan said musingly.

Again Jamison laughed. "What is binding here, gentlemen? On a river whose only court of law is the strongest will, whose only policeman the revolver? You know, and I admit it, I'm out to grind Crotch under heel until he's helpless. You have the intelligence not to shackle your company to a weak sister."

Logan looked squarely at him for the first time. "I think there's something you're overlooking, Jamison. La Paz is so situated on the river that it won't long be navigable to your boats. As a matter of fact, our contract holds Crotch accountable for dredging the sand bars."

"I can dredge as well as another. But you made a mistake in choosing La Paz for your mill site. A couple of miles down river, Ehrenberg is going to be the real camp. If you've got sense you'll move there before somebody beats you."

"Who is to bring this second mill?" Sugar Logan demanded quickly.

Jamison spread his broad hands. "Gentlemen, don't accuse me of this! I'm simply warning you."

"It's too late to move," Logan said quietly. "The barges're finished and we've got to get the ore moved to Port Isabel and transferred onto a steamer."

"How much is Crotch stealing off you for carrying that stuff?" Jamison demanded.

"Ten dollars a ton."

"Navigation is a big company—we can do it for half."

Logan repeated, "You'll charge $5 the ton to Port Isabel?"

"We'll do it and make money. But mainly we'll break the General Heath."

"We can't take a hand in this," John Slade was saying softly. "A man ain't got much in this world but his word." And again Logan nodded.

"Tonight Amador's going to drop downriver to fool Crotch. In the morning he's going to find out there's no ore to be hauled from La Paz. We're towing the barges with us."

"You want another fight with Crotch?"

"He's not in shape for another fight."

"John, let's think it over," Sugar Logan said quite suddenly.

Illinois Traffic Toll Reverses Upward Trend

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Governor William G. Stratton announced today that the traffic accident fatality toll on Illinois highways during 1954 reversed an upward trend for the first time in five years.

The chief executive released figures which placed the annual death toll at 2,047, a reduction of six per cent below the 2,179 total for 1953.

Governor Stratton said the improved record had been achieved notwithstanding an increase of 136,155 in motor vehicle registration and a one per cent rise in travel mileage.

December fatalities totaled 192, a drop of 14 per cent when compared with the 224 deaths recorded for the same month in 1953.

Edwin A. Rosestone, director of Public Works and Buildings, credited three developments as substantial factors in bettering the annual safety record. These were:

(1) Illumination of center and lane lines on the entire 12,000-mile primary highway system with enlargement of warning signs completed last October.

(2) Conversion of two-lane arterial highways into modern four-lane expressways.

(3) The special program initiated by Governor Stratton for handling traffic congestion during the Illinois football season.

What the Regulation of Gas Supply Means to 25,000,000 American Families

THE FIVE THOUSAND producers of natural gas—large and small—believe that the free competitive system which has increased your gas supplies and kept rates low is the best for consumers, for the industry, and the economy.

They believe the proposal to abandon competition and clamp bureaucratic controls on gas production will hurt consumers, damage the industry, and benefit no one.

Here are some answers to questions you as a consumer may have on this vital issue.

What Is This Regulation?

Sixteen years after a 1938 law was passed, a new interpretation of some of its words now forces the Federal Power Commission to do what it has eleven times refused to do—try to fix the price that an interstate pipeline pays the 5000 competing producers who find the gas and get it from the ground.

Will This Regulation Reduce Our Gas Bills?

Hardly. Only about 10% of the average gas bill goes to the producer who finds the gas and sells it. The other 90% pays for constructing, maintaining and operating the long-distance pipelines and local distribution systems—already regulated.

How Will Regulation Affect Supply?

It will reduce the supply. Most natural gas is produced by "wildcatters" and other independents. They are used to keen competition and big risks. But put them under Federal controls—with permits, endless forms, licenses, hearings and suits—and the work of exploration is sure to suffer. Three new pipeline projects to bring gas to more consumers have been suspended since regulation took effect.

Hasn't Gas Always Been Regulated?

Gas distribution, yes. It makes sense to have only one pipeline bring gas to a community—and one gas company distribute it in the community. Both do a good, efficient job for you, and as monopolies they are naturally regulated.

But there's no monopoly in finding gas. Far from it. Gas production is risky and keenly competitive. There are five thousand large and small producers looking for gas—and finding it in only one out of every nine exploratory wells they drill. They compete vigorously to sell their gas. A single pipeline may buy from 200 or more producers.

Is Gas Different from Coal or Oil—or Grain?

It isn't. And if there's price-fixing for natural gas at the well so can there be next for coal at the mine or oil at the well—or lumber in the forest, or grain on the farm.

How Did The Consumer Fare Before This Regulation?

Here's the record. In the past 16 years natural gas production has increased 200% and the price the consumer paid for gas has risen only 1/11th as much as the general cost of living.

Do Only A Few Big Companies Produce Gas?

No. The largest 37 companies produce less than half the nation's gas. No single company produces more than 5%. The small producers do more exploratory drilling than do all the big companies combined. And none of the producers has any monopoly, any exclusive franchise, or any protection.

What Is The Natural Gas and Oil Resources Committee?

It is made up of companies and individuals concerned with natural gas. It includes a great many large and small gas and oil producers. All believe there is no more reason for OPA-like price-fixing on gas than on steel, coal, autos, meat, or shoes, which could be next. All believe that free competition is better for all of us than a price-controlled economy, which has historically led to stagnation, scarcity and rationing.

What Can I Do?

You can reason out the issues, reach your own conclusions, and make those conclusions known to your friends and neighbors.

Under free competition without federal regulation—

- Natural gas became plentiful—output rose two hundred per cent in the past sixteen years.
- Natural gas stayed reasonable—and gas prices to the consumer rose only one-eleventh as much as living costs in the past sixteen years.
- Natural gas has helped create thousands of jobs in industry and now supplies one-fourth of the nation's energy resources.

NOW cumbersome federal controls threaten all this progress.

Looking At Sports
By ED KIRKPATRICK

Most popular (or unpopular) guy in the Shawneetown gymnasium following Friday night's Indian-Bearcat game was yours truly. Avid Shawneetown fans couldn't pass up the opportunity (and rightfully so) to indulge in a little good-natured ribbing at our expense. In Friday's column we had predicted Galatia wouldn't fall victim of Shawneetown again by any 33-point margin. We weren't altogether wrong; the final figures on the scoreboard revealed a 34-point spread.

We had seen Galatia in action just a week ago Saturday against Eldorado. And save for a poor second quarter showing, the Bearcats seemed improved. In fact, they gave Eldorado some worried moments in the second half. But Friday night the Bearcats couldn't put one good quarter together, and persons collected early seemed to throw them somewhat off stride. Shawneetown, of course, had superior rebounding and field goal shooting. Galatia's defense fell completely apart in the closing minutes, and that's when the Indian margin really mounted.

There's no getting around it, these Indians present a fine aggregation. And we've noted they're gaining supporters and recognition throughout southern Illinois. The hometown is behind them solid. Needless to say, the school, town and fans are hopeful of seeing the Indians win the conference tourney, conference title... and the regional tourney, come early March. All of this is within the realm of possibility for Shawneetown has a ball club!

Middlecoff Wins Pro Division of Crosby Tourney

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The youngsters today had another lesson to paste in the hat-bands and the touring golf professionals: Never write off an old pro.

Dr. Cary Middlecoff, 34, who has been on the circuit for years, picked up a $3,500 check today for his efforts in the $15,000 Bing Crosby National Pro-Amateur Golf Tournament which ended Sunday.

Middlecoff gave such Johnny-come-latelys as Gene Littler and Bobby Rosburg a lesson on the final day of the tournament in the business of playing under pressure.

Middlecoff tanked putts of 30, 30 and 12 feet when the going was roughest at Pebble Beach to fire a one-under-par 71 and post a 54-hole total of 209—and spread-eagle the field in the pro division by four strokes. That was worth $2,500.

First Plebiscite

First plebiscite taken was during the 1790s, when the French government permitted the citizens of Savoy and Nice to vote for or against union with France.

Tri-Ocean Waters

The slopes of Triple Divide Peak, 8000 feet high, in Glacier National Park, Montana, send their waters into three oceans: Pacific, Atlantic and Arctic.

Second in Pro-Amateur

He paired with Ed Crowley of Los Angeles to finish in second place in the pro-amateur division and collected another $1,000.

Littler and Rosburg, who had been right on the heels of Middlecoff when they started, faded to scores of a 76 for Littler and a 77 for the San Francisco youngster.

The pro-amateur division was won by another team of veterans, Byron Nelson and auto mogul Ed Lowery of San Francisco. They finished with a rush when the going was toughest to post a best-ball of 64 on Pebble Beach and a 54-hole best-ball of 195.

Second-place finishers in the pro division were Paul McGuire, 26-year old star from Wichita, Kan., and Julius Boros, former National Open champion from Mid Pines, N. C. They had 213 totals and collected $1,250 each. Veteran Vic Ghezzi, Inwood, N. J., and another oldtimer of the tour, Stan Leonard, Vancouver, B. C., tied for fourth with 215, collecting $600.

Three-Way Deadlock

Littler, Rosburg and Doug Ford were deadlocked at 216 and each got $300 for sixth place.

A three-way tie for third in the pro-amateur division included, Rosburg and Mann, Leonard and Jack Walters, Tacoma, Wash., and Fred Wampler, Indianapolis, Ind., and Julie Besco, Los Angeles, each pro member collecting $550.

The professionals head from here to the San Diego, Calif., area. Tuesday and Wednesday six of them will compete in the International Hopkins Matches with the pick of Canadian professionals, and the $15,000 San Diego Open starts on Thursday.

Pacific Coast Warns NCAA It Will 'Abstain' From TV Game of Week

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Pacific Coast conference warned the NCAA today that it would "abstain" from participation in the game-of-the-week plan of televising football games if that program is reaffirmed this year.

The resolution, adopted at a special meeting of the PCC Sunday, will be forwarded to the NCAA television committee, scheduled to submit a program for vote of members late in March or early April.

The PCC went on record in favor of a "regional television program, nationally controlled." Its stand is similar to that of the Big Ten conference. Both groups opposed the game-of-the-week method of 1954 at the recent convention of the NCAA in New York.

Attucks Trips Carrier Mills For 16th Victory

Carbondale Attucks won its 16th game of the season Saturday night, defeating Carrier Mills 60-49. The game was played at Carrier Mills.

Attucks, winner of 15 in a row before dropping a decision to Mounds Douglas Friday night, jumped away to a 17-7 lead at the end of the first quarter and maintained a fairly safe advantage throughout the game.

Carrier Mills Coach Claude Shelton revamped his lineup, starting Coffield, Shadovens, Berns and the Rollins brothers, Oliver and Vern. Berns is the only senior in the group and it marked the first starting assignment for Coffield and Shadovens.

Four others, all underclassmen, also saw action.

O. Rollins paced all scorers with 20 points. Hendricks was high point maker for the winners with 18.

Attucks also took the preliminary game, 69-39.

Carrier Mills will be at home Friday night, hosting Sesser.

West Defeats East Pro Grid Squad, 26-19

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The 60 best football players in the nation returned to their homes and off-season jobs today after a nip and tuck fifth annual Pro Bowl game which saw the favored West squad come from behind in the final period for a 26-19 win.

But the game left many questions unanswered. With San Francisco's Y. A. Tittle throwing for two touchdowns, Joe Perry scoring another, and end Billie Wilson catching a phenomenal 11 passes for 157 yards, the 43,972 fans filed out of Memorial Coliseum wondering why the talent-laden 49ers have never won a division title.

Also unanswered was the question of West Coach Buck Shaw's future. The silver-haired mentor was fired from the 49ers last month, and after Sunday's victory he admitted he still has not decided whether he will stay in football or go into business.

Groza's Kicking Off

They were puzzled also by the vagaries of Lou Groza's famed toe. The big Cleveland tackle missed two field goals and two out of three conversions for the East.

And Cleveland's Otto Graham, playing in his fifth and last Pro Bowl, passed for a touchdown in the first quarter, but thereafter could complete only three of 16 passes.

But the most tantalizing question was how Billie Wilson time and again filtered into the open to catch Tittle's passes. He received the Halas Trophy as the game's most valuable player.

Former Big Ten Grid Star Burns to Death, Wife is Suffocated

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP)—A cigarette dropped in an overstuffed chair was blamed today for the deaths of a former Big Ten football star and his wife.

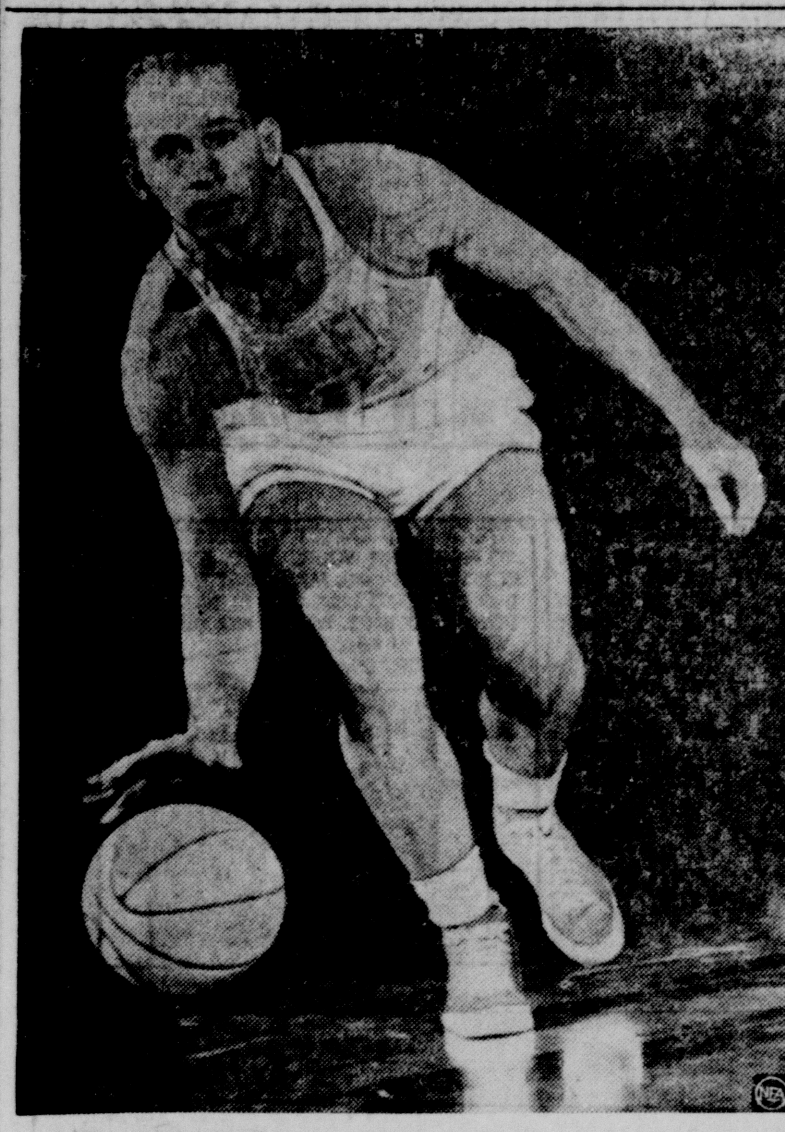

Fire Chief A. R. Marshall said Loren Lewis, 47, apparently fell asleep while smoking in the chair early Sunday. He died of burns suffered on his way to rouse his wife, Mary, 46, in another room.

Mrs. Lewis was found suffocated together with their pet dog.

Lewis, known as "Tiny" in his athletic high school and college days, was a famed all-around performer at Carlinville, Ill., and later a standout fullback at Northwestern.

He played for the Wildcats when they were a conference power from 1925-27.

Eldorado Eagles Trip W. Frankfort, 41-35, in Tight Defensive Tilt

The Eldorado Eagles set a tight defensive trap Saturday night and caged the West Frankfort Red Birds 41-35.

West Frankfort, highly regarded in southern Illinois basketball circles, found the Eldorado defense too much and saw their high scorers held to their lowest point production of the season.

And in holding West Frankfort to only 15 field goals, Eldorado did it smoothly, having only seven fouls called throughout the entire game. This low fouling performance gave the visiting Red Birds little chance at the free throw line and they added but five charity tosses to their total.

Eldorado's 41 points were accounted for through 14 field goals and 13 free tosses.

The preliminary game, also a close affair, went to Eldorado 41-39.

Eldorado plays at Harrisburg Friday and Tuesday, Jan. 25, will be home to Zeigler.

Illinois Meets Iowa in Big Ten Scrap Tonight, After 86-76 Win Over OSU

CHICAGO (AP)—Iowa gets a chance to move into a first place tie in the Big Ten basketball race tonight, tangling with co-leader Illinois at Iowa City in a battle which should determine whether the pre-season favored Hawks deserve title consideration.

Illinois, going into action, shared the league lead with Minnesota, each with three wins in four games, while Iowa was in third place with two wins in three battles.

Hence an Iowa win would deadlock the Hawkeyes with the Gophers at the top of the heap while the Illinois victory would move the Illini into undisputed first place and drop Iowa to a .500 rating.

Two other conference games were on tonight's program, but only the Purdue at Northwestern scrap could affect the first division. Northwestern has broken even in two games and by winning would move into at least fourth place. Purdue has a one-two mark and needed a victory to get into the first division.

The third league battle will match Michigan State at Indiana as the defending champion Hoosiers attempt to climb out of the league cellar. Wisconsin will play a non-conference game at Butler.

Iowa was idle Saturday but Illinois put on its best show of the season for the 86-76 win over Ohio State at Columbus.

Robin Freeman tallied 33 points for the Buckeyes to retain the individual scoring lead with an average of 35.7 points per game, but Paul Judson dropped 24 for the Illini and George Bon Salle connected for 22.

Don Schlundt, the defending individual scoring champion, poured in 22 markers for Indiana to hold second place in the individual scoring with a 29 point average, but the Hoosiers gave him little help and lost their third game in four starts, 77-66 to Wisconsin.

Minnesota's Dick Garmaker dropped 25 points and Chuck Mencil 27 to spark the Gophers to a 102-88 conquest of Purdue with the third highest single game scoring total in Big Ten history. Garmaker scored 22.

Cairo Voters to Decide on City Manager Government

CAIRO, Ill. (UP) — Voters will decide Tuesday whether Cairo will change its commission form of government for a city manager-council plan.

The campaign has included charges that Cairo is "sliding backwards" and that city manager government is a "sort of dictatorship."
